Special Issue of Fijian Studies on

Women and Gender Issues in Fiji

November 2005

Special Guest Editor

Dr Jacqui Leckie

Anthropology Department

University of Otago

This special issue of Fijian Studies will focus on women and gender issues in Fiji. We are soliciting original and insightful proposals for journal articles that directly or indirectly address women's and gender issues in past and contemporary Fiji.

Some possible topics are:

- gender and power
- poverty and gender
- work and gender
- health and gender
- art, representation and gender
- crossing genders and transexuality
- homo and hetero-sexualities
- gender and information technologies
- gender and development

You might like to first send a proposal to the guest editor, Dr Jacqui Leckie.

Papers are due by 1 December 2004. They should conform to the style of the Journal. All papers will be refereed. Reviews of books on women and gender studies are also welcomed.
